Hayward's crew has gone down greatly in favour, mainly due to bow and No. 2; and he is no longer favourite. Fri Lammert's crew has risen in favour, and M'Carthy's staying powers could thoroughly depended on this crew might backed with impunity. Grimes 18 sti fanoled, but there is some difficulty in finding a bow in place of Alves, who has been transferred to Canton. If allowed to take Barlow-and there is as yet some doubt on that point-the crew will be equal to Fritz Lammert's. Manuk, after deliberately refraining from entering for this race at the beginning of the training sesson, has decided to stroke the crew picked by E. Lammert ; this popular young stroke, I regret to say, being still on the sick list. Surely this is a flank movement by Manuk. I think it Nathaniel Hawthorne who moralises on the inconsequence of individuals in the world and it is good for some people to learn how easily a Regatta or a Rowing Club can get on without them. At the same time. welcome the return to the old love on the part of at least one good stroke. Duncan's orew has gone to pieces during the week, and I am afraid it will not make the show I anticipated. All the men are game enough, I doubt not, and will row the race to the finish, but the cars are not handled skilfully enough. A few weeks' coaching might alter matters. With the Regatta so close at hand little improvement can now be made. Stopani's crew still exists. That is all I can say about it.

With regard to the German Cup, even at this early date it is safe to 'spot' Fritz Lammert's crew as the winners that is assuming that Lammert (who is not well at present) and his men come forward in good condition. Manuk's crew will fall into his stroke very readily and will row prettily, but they can searcely be in the hunt.

It is satisfactory to be able to state that five crows were picked last night for the Griffins' Race. This should be encouraging to the officials of the V.R.C. who keep an eye on the future of the Regatta. The crews derived from the native community, amongst whom also are to be found the guarantors and securities necessary to place it on a business and legal footing.
